15. MACEDONIAN KINGDOM, ALEXANDER III THE GREAT; 336-323 BC, Stater, Memphis, 332-323 BC, 8.49g., Price-3963a, Muller-1516. Symbol: Ram with crown representing the Egyptian god Amun-Ra. For almost 200 years Egypt had been occupied by Persia who had incorporated it into the growing empire, and assuming the Egyptian crown by right of conquest the

- Persian king had ruled in absentia through a satrap, exploiting its vast grain reserves and taxing its people. The Persians showed relatively little respect for the ancient traditions and were deeply unpopular, and the Egyptians had rebelled so often that parts of the country remained virtually independent. Alexander was therefore hailed as Savior and Liberator, and as the people's choice and legitimate heir he was offered the double crown of the Two Lands and anointed as pharaoh in Memphis on 14 November 332 BC. Alexander immediately made sacrifices to the gods at Memphis and visited Siwa Oasis in the Libyan Desert, where the oracle of Amun-Ra officially recognized him as the god's son, thus apparently restoring the true pharaonic. The ram symbol on our coin is a direct example of the propaganda Alexander used through his coinage and it commemorated the crowning of Alexander as Pharaoh. We can trace only one auction appearance of this extremely rare and important coin, Muenzen & Medaillen 1970 #78, same dies as ours. Good VF ..... SOLD

Obv: Portrait of Ptolemy III wearing radiate crown of Helios (Ra), on shoulders chlamys and aegis of Zeus, over shoulder decorated trident-scepter of Poseidon, Rx: Single cornucopia filled with fruits and grapes, covered on top with an arc and sun rays; hanging fillet with fringes. 25. BRUTUS; Civil War, Stater, Tomis, 44-42 BC, 8.44g. Rx: Athena seated. In the name of Lysimachus, bearing portrait of Alexander III the Great. Unusual obverse die that looks more like a youthful female deity than the deified Alexander it is supposed to portray. MS ..... 850
26. BRUTUS; CIVIL WAR, 44-42 BC, Gold Stater, Thrace, Callatis, 8.26g. Rx-Athena seated. In the name of Lysimachus, bearing portrait of Alexander III the Great. Softly struck, EF ..... 750
27. VESPASIAN; 69-79 AD, Aureus, mule with Titus reverse die, Rome, 76 AD, 7.22g., BM-132 (pl. 3.20, same dies, misdated to 74 AD), C-107 corr. (Caylus, 45 Fr.), RIC-71 var. Obv: IMP CAESAR VESPASIANVS AVG Head laureate left. Rx: COS V Heifer standing r. "The heifer is unquestionably the famous statue of Myron which had been placed by Augustus in the 'Porticus Apollonis' and was transferred by Vespasian to the temple of Peace" (BMC, p. xxxviii). BMC and RIC erroneously date this coin to 74 AD, not realizing that it is in fact a mule of 76 AD struck from a COS V reverse die of Titus instead of a proper COS VII die of Vespasian. This proved by the use of the same obverse and reverse dies in correct combinations on other coins: the evidence is given in the note to lot 23 in our catalog 127. Our aureus is thus very rare and of considerable specialist interest: mint mules of the early and middle Roman empire, rare enough in bronze and silver, almost never occur in gold. Old ding on obverse, otherwise good VF ..... 6000

59. BARCIDS IN SPAIN, ISSUE OF HANNIBAL WITH PROBABLE PORTRAIT; Quarter Shekel, Carthago Nova, 221-218 BC, 1.78g., Sear-6566, Robinson-6(d). Obv: Laureate bust of young Melqart-Herakles l., probably with features of Hannibal, heavy knotted club behind neck. Rx: African elephant walking r. The young Melqart on this coin "must have the features of Hannibal", according to E.S.G. Robinson, Punic Coins of Spain, Mattingly Essays 1956, p. 39. At the time the coin was struck, Hannibal was about to undertake his famous march across Gaul and over the Alps to Italy, accompanied by war elephants like the one shown on the reverse of the coin. Some porosity, about EF ..... 600
60. LUCANIA, THURIUM; Stater, 440-420 BC, 7.71g., Cf. SNG ANS-897-9; obv. type Y. Obv: Helmeted head of Athena r. wearing Attic helmet decorated with olive wreath. Rx: Bull butting r., free swimming tunny below; no exergual line. This variant is not in any major references without exergual line on reverse; apparently unpublished. The obverse of this coin is a beautifully created head of Athena. The reverse is even better. It is artistically exceptional. The bull appears to be swimming as is the tunny and there is no exergual line. It is highly unusual to find a new variant in such a thoroughly studied coinage as that of Thurium. With this coin coming at the beginning of their series, it could even be a trial or a experimental issue done by a master die engraver. Slight reverse porosity on the far right-hand edge, Near MS ..... 6000

64. SICILY, HIMERA; Tetradrachm, artist signed, 415-408 BC, 17.44g. Obv: Quadriga of mules driven by female charioteer, who is being crowned by Nike who holds a wreath in one hand and in the other hand a tablet inscribed with the artist's initials: MAI; in exergue, a hippocamp, Rx-Nymph Himera standing holding patera over altar; on right saytr standing in basin, washing below fountain which pours from lion-head spout. This coin is a consignment piece and has a reserve price which has been set by the consignor. Before this coin and its brethren came to light, this issue only appeared in F or worse condition. When 120 of these coins surfaced, all in this condition, it gave us all an opportunity to own an excellent piece of Greek art. The obv has a highly spirited though somewhat disrupted quadriga with mules drawing it, while a flying Victory crowns the driver with one hand while she holds a plaque bearing the artist's initials, MAI, in the other hand. These wonderful coins have been fairly well absorbed over the years by collectors, but occasionally when we get a chance to handle one of these, it pleases us greatly. MS ..... 5750
65. BRUTTIUM, RHEGIUM; Tetradrachm, 480-466 BC, 17.26g., Weber-1854, BM-4, S-496. This is one of the classic rarities of the Greek series. While it is not as desirable as the tetradrachm of 460 BC it is still much sought after. The flattening on the chest of Silenus is die wear that is always seen on Cahn 102. There are numerous small scratches as the result of poor cleaning, but the coin is generally pleasing. The portrait of Dionysus though worn is quite regal, F+ ..... 6850

Bank Leu 1958 #94, realized SFR 4600
Bank Leu 1975 #6, realized SFR 44000. This is one of the finest decadrachm of Kimon that we have ever handled. It is perfectly centered on an extremely large and solid flan (No corrosion). All four dolphins are present as well as the complete name of the city. The face of Arethusa is sweet and beautiful. There is a die break in front of the neck and across the hair which is typical of Jongkees-8. The quadriga side is virtually complete which is very unusual though slightly doublestruck. The reason for the doublestriking on the quadriga side is the reason for the gorgeous high relief on the Arethusa side. It takes much more than one strike to create a relief as high as this coin has. In addition to being a truly beautiful coin the decadrachm by Kimon is one of the most important coins in the Greek series, as well as one of the most sought after. The wonderful pedigree which includes the J. Pierpont Morgan Collection attests to the quality of this individual coin. Though the photos we have reproduced are very good, it's nothing like holding this immense beauty in your hand. EF ..... 45000

To r., Corinthian helmet, Rx: Quadripartite incuse square. In the late sixth century and early fifth century B.C., several Thracian tribes and the Greek city of Abdera in Thrace struck enormous silver octadrachms, eight-drachm coins. The most prominent of the tribes was the Bisalti, who lived to the west of the lower Strymon river in Thrace. Octadrachms were the largest silver coins struck anywhere at the time. The size of this denomination is made apparent by the fact that a mercenary soldier was paid significantly less than one drachm a day and a highly skilled artisan made no more than one drachm a day. An octadrachm was much too large a denomination for use in daily transactions at the market. Its purchasing power would have been at least as great as a thousand dollar bill today! Why, then, did the Thracians issue these enormous coins?
The Thracians controlled important silver mines and exported silver to pay for luxuries, such as wine, fine weapons, and stylish clothing, that they imported in great quantities from Greece and the Persian Empire. Also, in the late sixth century the Persians extended their empire to include Thrace, and they demanded tribute from this newly conquered territory. That tribute must have been paid in these large silver coins, for they are found primarily in the territory of the Persian Empire: Anatolia, Syria, Palestine, Egypt, and Iran.
Relatively few octadrachms have survived. The pressure required to strike these large pieces must have been great and the dies wore quickly. Most of those found in the Persian Empire have suffered from test cuts and in many cases have actually been hacked into smaller and presumably more easily negotiable pieces. EF ..... 5350

Zacynthus is an important island in the Ionian Sea, about ten miles off the coast of Elis. Homer mentions it frequently. Its one city bore the same name as the island. The present archaic coin was discussed in Numismatic Chronicle, 1885, where it was described as "apparently unique." We know of no examples beyond that coin, the Rosen specimen, and the coin offered here. Extremely rare; possibly the third known specimen. All Greek island coins are rare. In that this coin bears a tripod which is usually the symbol of the games and as the island of Zycanthus is off the coast of Elis, it is certainly possible that this coin was issued in conjunction with the Olympic Games, though admittedly this theory is absolutely unproven. This type and the FORT RED type struck for Septimius at the same time and dated to his final tribunician year, prove that, doubtless because of his illness, the emperor had been planning to return to Rome for some time before he died at York on 4 February 211 AD. 231. CARACALLA; 198-217 AD, Denarius, Rome, 206 AD, 3.01g., BM-508, C-253 (50 Fr.). Rx: LAETITIA TEMPORVM The spina of the Circus Maximus decorated as a ship facing l., with the turning posts at its prow and stern, a sail mounted on the central obelisk, and the spina's other monuments visible in between; above the ship, four quadrigas racing l.; below, seven animals: an ostrich at l. and bear at r.; between them a lion and a lioness chasing a wild ass and a panther attacking a bison. Bought from M&M Basel, July 1967. Rare: only two specimens in Reka Devnia hoard. This famous type commemorates the chariot races and animal hunt that took place on the seventh and final day of Severus' Saecular Games in 204 AD, as described in the inscriptional acts of those games which were found in Rome in the 1870s and 1930s. Dio Cassius describes the same animal hunt, but his epitomator has clumsily omitted a large section of the preceding original text, wrongly creating the impression that the hunt was held in 202 not 204 AD. Both the inscriptional acts and Dio say that 700 beasts were killed, one hundred each of the same seven animals that are depicted in the coin type, namely lions, lionesses, panthers, bears, bisons, wild asses, and ostriches. Dio also says that the receptacle from which the beasts were released was shaped like a ship, and the coin type suggests that the hunt must have taken place in the Circus Maximus where the spina had also been fitted out as a ship. The coins commemorating these games were not struck until 206 AD, two years after the event, as is proved by the change from "draped bust" to "head only" obverse type on the relevant coins of Caracalla, and by other indications. 249. REGALIANUS; 260 AD, Antoninianus, Carnuntum, 3.27g., RIC-7 (R5), C-4 (400 Fr.); Goebel pl. II, M1 (in Budapest, same dies). Obv: IMP C P C REGALIANVS AVG Bust radiate r. Rx: ORIENS AVGG Sol standing l. raising r. arm (not struck up) and holding whip in l. Extremely rare. R. Goebel, Regalian und Dryantilla, Vienna 1970, could locate only 26 surviving antoniniani of Regalian. Eleven of those coins had the ORIENS AVGG reverse type, all coming from a single reverse die which is the same as that of our coin. Only one of the coins in Goebel's corpus, however, comes from the same obverse die as our specimen; ours is apparently the second known example from that obverse die. Like all other coins of Regalian and Dryantilla, ours too is struck over a denarius of an earlier emperor. The neck of the portrait of the undertype survives on the obverse of our coin, quite neatly joining onto Regalian's own head! On the actual die, Regalian's bust was draped, but the drapery was not struck up on our specimen. On the reverse, in an area of the coin exactly opposite that occupied by the surviving neck on the obverse, Sol's head and right arm were not struck up and instead we see the outline of the original reverse type: the upper half of a figure standing left and extending its right arm as though to hold patera, globe, or other attribute. In addition the faint outline of a letter O from the original legend can be made out between the A and V of Regalian's AVGG. These surviving traces of the undertype, however, seem too scanty to allow us to identify it precisely. Coins of Regalianus are one of the classic rarities of the Roman series. As they are all overstruck the legends are normally very difficult to read and the coins are frequently chipped or broken. While this coin is of the usual poor metal the legend is clear and sharp except for where it runs off the flan. This coin is highly desirable and rarely available. VF..... 9750

Obv: T CAESAR VESPASIAN IMP III PON TR POT II COS II Head laureate r. Rx: VICTORIA AVGVSTI S C Victory standing r. placing I. foot on helmet and inscribing shield set on palm tree. A Jewish victory reverse type, introduced for Vespasian in 71 AD and listed for Titus with a commoner obverse legend by Hendin-793. The three issues of bronze coins recording Titus' imperial number (IMP III or IIII) in 72-3 AD are all rare. The obverse die of our coin was also used with the type Titus riding down enemy, M&M Basel List 408 Feb. 1979 26 = List 274 March 1967 42. This coin bears one of the most beautiful high-relief portraits of the emperor Titus that we have ever handled. The features of the emperor are very sensitively sculpted and the short beard over the slightly flabby jowls under the jaw is wonderfully rendered. The Victory on the reverse is very graceful. The drapery falls gracefully from her raised thigh and the foot of that leg rests on a Jewish helmet. The coin is struck on a broad planchet with a warm dark brown color. A real masterpiece of Roman art. Virtually MS..... 9500

Nerva's sestertii of 97 AD are extraordinary for recording three popular reforms of abuses of Domitian: Milder administration of the Jewish Temple Tax (FISCI IVDAICI CALUMNIA SUBLATA), remission to Italy of the expenses of the Imperial Post (VEHICVLATIONE ITALIAE REMISSA) and, as on our coin, "The fixing of supplies of grain for the Plebs of Rome." Interesting Annona type which appears only on asses of Pius as TR P XVI and XVII. The branch and basket of fruit are not usual attributes of Annona, although the latter is approximately the equivalent of a cornucopia which of course she often carries. The branch is a vine branch alluding to grape harvests according to Mattingly (BMC p. xc), whereas Strack thinks it is the olive branch of Pax referring to a victory in Africa which has assured Rome's supply of grain from that province (Untersuchungen III, p. 59). Ex Fred Knobloch List, March 1962. Aphrodite/Venus was the wife of Ares/Mars according to some traditions, but in the Odyssey she is married to Hephaistos/Vulcan and has an affair with Ares, until Hephaistos exposes them to ridicule by catching them together in bed with a net. The two divinities were often associated in cult and they are depicted together in many ancient artworks. According to an old interpretation of our coin type, now generally discredited, it would refer to Faustina's affair with the gladiator Narcissus, a scandal reported by the Historia Augusta. 367. HADRIAN; 117-138 AD, Drachm, Alexandria, Year 17 or 18=132/3 or 133/4 AD, 24.83g., Unpublished type in this denomination. Rx: L I [Z or H] Bust of Helios r., draped and radiate. Emmett-852 records this type for Hadrian only on tetradrachms of years 2-3, 9-11, and 14, but not on any bronze coin. The date on our coin, which might at first appear to be L H, must in fact be L I [Z or H], since its obverse legend and portrait style were only used between years 17 and 21. The first numeral of the date could be an "I" instead of an "H" but can hardly be a "K", and "19" is excluded because that number was always written out on Hadrian's coins. It is very rare to find an unpublished type in a series so well studied and so heavily collected. There is some suggestion that the Helios on the reverse could be Hadrian's favorite Antinous as Helios. Excellent surfaces, Bold Fine..... 4000

Rx: DIVI M PII F P M TR P III COS II P P Mars advancing r. holding spear and trophy over shoulder. Very rare, possibly only the third known specimen. Only a single specimen of this coin, that in Paris, from the same dies as ours, was known to C. Clay in 1972. A second specimen, from the same obverse die but a different reverse die, appeared in Leu April 1975 462. Towards the middle of 195 Septimius declared himself to be the son of Marcus Aurelius and his official titulature thereafter included a list of divine imperial ancestors from Divus Marcus all the way back to Divus Nerva. On the coins, however, the only record of this "self-adoption" is the appearance of the title "Son of the Deified Marcus Aurelius" on very rare aurei like ours plus rare sestertii and dupondii in 195 and on the New Year's issue of bronze medallions for 196. Rx: VICTORIA AVGVSTI S C Victory flying l., bare right leg forward, holding wreath and palm, mark of value II in exergue. Rare appearance of the mint of Rome variant of this type at Lugdunum: at Lugdunum Victory is usually depicted advancing left, with her clothed left leg forward and usually with a ground line, rather than flying left, with bare right leg forward and no ground line, as on our coin. This difference is not described in Cohen or BMC and may have been noted for the first time by MacDowall, Western Coinages of Nero, nos. 495-6, followed by Sutherland, RIC nos. 377-9. 428. EGYPTIAN, FIGURE OF OSIRIS WITH BASTET-CAT AND FALCON, Bronze, (26th) Saite Dyasty, 664-525 B.C. This figure of Osiris features an Elaborate 'Atef' Crown, generally composed of the bulbous White Crown of Upper Egypt, accented by flanking plumes, a uraeus, and twisted horns. Below the attached false beard, Osiris grasps the crook and flail, agricultural implements which indicate Osiris' very ancient origins. The presence of the small cat indicates the widespread popularity of the cat-goddess Bastet at this time and the goddess's magical associations. In some mythical contexts Bastet is identified as the mother of Anubis, god of embalming and the protector of the corpse, and, in the town of Edfu, she is referred to as "the Ba (a soul element) of Isis", wife of Osiris. Moreover, Bastet and the related leonine goddess Sekhmet are among the dieties in control of a body of magical spirits or demons called sheseru ("arrows"). Among these were troops of emissaries and messengers who could punish sinners or attack as directed. The votive bronze may have included the cat representation to further invest the image with magical power to enlist powerful forces and thereby allow the offerer's wishes to be fully directed to the god Osiris. The falcon-head surmounted by solar disk and plumes, found on the back of the Osiris figure invest the figure with the power of Horus, a great solar diety, representing the power of kingship. More fundamentally, Horus was the son of Osiris, and his defender against his murderer, the evil god Set. The combination of Osiris and Horus symbolizes the triumph of good over evil embodied in the myth of Osiris and the magical power Horus represented as Righteous Defender. The base of this highly unusual bronze votive incorporates two inscriptions to two individual dieties. The side inscription makes reference to an offering to the solar diety Re, and the front inscription to the goddess Bastet, represented figurally as a cat in the corner of the statue composition itself. 431. EGYPTIAN, BRONZE VOTIVE FIGURE OF AMUN-RE, Bronze, Late Period 26th Saite Dynasty, 664-525 B.C. Traditionally portrayed as a human male in a striding stance, with close-fitting kilt, broad collar and attached false beard, Amun-Re came to be revered as the King of Egyptian Gods, wearing the symbol of his power; the tall double plumed solar disk headdress. His origins are very ancient, traced to the area around Thebes, where, as Amun "The hidden one", he was believed to represent the primeval force of creation and his true nature was believed to be in darkness, secret and unknowable to human beings. He was paired first with a feminine counterpart, a goddess consort named Amaunet, and then, with the increasing political dominance of Egypt by the city of Thebes, in the new kingdom, Amun became Amun-Re, and then was joined to the powerful solar diety of Heliopolis, assuming the characteristics of this very different god. This larger than average bronze figure expresses, through the broad striding motion of Amun-Re's stance, his pomer, conveying a sense of continuous action. His torso is sturdy, with broad shoulders and strongly rendered upper arms. The figure is dominated by the tall plumed headdress, with incised feathered details. A broad collar is incised with minute details to indicate beadwork, and his kilt is scored to indicate pleating. Intact and in very good condition except for the left arm, broken slightly below the elbow, this bronze votive is a rare example of an offering given to the temple of Amun-Re. H. 8.5"..... 8000
432. EGYPTIAN, OSTRACON OR STONE FLAKE WITH A HEAD-SHAVING SCENE, Limestone, New Kingdom, ca. 1550-1069 B.C. A comment concerning the function of chapels for worship in the village of Deir el Medina and the function of lay priesthood follows from the book Pharaoh's Workers "The workmen themselves engaged in the simple priestly activities documented; the villagers probably had no professional clergy, though some chapels had attached chambers or guard houses. Serving as priests for the processions they conducted on numerous feast days, the majority were acting as ordinary "wab" priests (pure ones), though the titles of "lector", "fan bear" and "bak" (servant) are also known." From: Pharaoh's Workers, the Villagers of Deir el Medina Leonard H. Lesko, Editor. Cornell University Press, 1994. PP. 90-93. A scene from everyday life is here depicted, where the seated figure, wearing a red shoulder-strap and attached garment typical of the New Kingdom, is attended by another figure, grasping a red razor in his left hand and steadying the attendee's head in his right. This standing figure with a delicately-rendered face, is garbed in a tight-fitting kilt-loincloth and red belt, his right foot braced against the attendee's folded knees. Likely represents part of the preparation to attend service in temple ritual required of priests-though Ancient Egyptians regularly opted for shaving for practical cleanliness and hygiene in general. These stone flake drawings were created by tomb artists in an impromptu fashion upon stone flakes produced during the quarrying of tombs and inspired by events seen or remembered in their daily lives. The scene is intact except for the missing upper portion of the barber's head. Probably from the Theban Area, village of Dier el Medina. H. 5 5/8"..... 9750

He is sucking on his finger and seated on a chair that is formed on each side with the "Eye of Horus" (or wedjat-eye) which represents "protection, the process of making whole, and the waxing and waning of the moon". 437. EGYPTIAN, VOTIVE HOLLOW CAST BRONZE FIGURE OF OSIRIS, Late Period, ca. 26th (Saite) Dynasty, 664-525 B.C. Depicted in mummiform with tall white crown and uraeus, here accented with feathers to form the 'atef' crown especially associated with this god. Under his false beard, a special type of scepter is grasped in his hands, the 'was' scepter, indicating symbolic "power" or "Dominion", whether depicted in the form of a hieroglyph, Amulet, or actual scepter. The 'Was' scepter represents Osiris' dominion over the realm of the Dead in the Afterlife as the chief funerary god of ancient Egyptians and provides a clue to 'an epithet of the God 'The Mighty One'. This use of the 'Was' scepter is a rare variant on the traditional depiction of Osiris with agricultural implements, the crook and flail. In good condition with fracture in ankle area. This unusual amuletic figure represents Osiris in mummiform with the White Crown of Upper Egypt, modified with certain traits normally associated with the god Min, the ithyphallic stance and outstretched arm. This combination may indicate another diety which adapted Osirian traits, Min-Amun-Re also known as Ka mufef, which literally means "bull of this mother". This diety, ans aspect of Amun, is depicted like Min, the ithyphallic god of Coptas and Akhmin, yet is absorbed into Osirian mythology, as the husband-son of Isis. To the Greeks, the siren was a human headed bird, either female or male, (in the archaic period they were often bearded) of which, the prototype of came from Egypt and the east. Sirens were musicians and essentially funerary. They would call the living to their death and accompany the souls of the dead into the remote kingdom where they were to dwell, consoling them and cheering them with their song. There is also the well known representation of Sirens in Homer's Oddey, in which Ulysses resisted the enchantment of the Siren's song by plugging his companions ears with wax, and binding himself to the mast of the ship. This particular Siren is missing her wings, both fore paws, yet this sculpture has a strong and somewhat mystical presence. Good art still carries a strong message even when it has losses. Very Rare. The difference was that the doves were perched on the rim of a cantharus and were reflected in the water. Christians linked imagery of the dove with their story of Noah, the Song of Songs, and also of Jesus' Baptism. The first letters of the name are lost due to the corrosion. The inscription reads "Q?.MILIO.Q.L." A probable reconstruction of the inscription is: Q(uinto Ae)milio Q(uinti) L(iberto). The name appears to be in the dative case, indicating possession. So, the translation would be "(belonging to ) Quintus Aemilius, the Freedman of Quintus". Roman soldiers, like modern soldiers, would have inscribed their name on their equipment. It is evident by the remnant of a chain link on this piece, that there was chain mail hanging from this armor. Roman soldiers put on first a cloth shirt, then armor like this, and finally a tunic over the armor. Pieces such as this are exceedingly rare.
